Dancing With Equus

A Chiron's Way Facilitator Training in Equine Guided Development

Master the Art of Partnering With Horses in the Field of Human Development.

Applications are now being accepted for the 2008 cohort.

If you are interested in adding an Equine Guided Development component to your professional repertoire (partnering with horses to enhance personal and professional growth), or would like to delve deeply into your own creative process, join Sandra Wallin of Chiron's Way Counselling, Coaching and Consulting and the Chiron's Way herd, for this, their 4th year of facilitator training.

In a world that is looking for more than the status quo in personal and professional development, horses are leading the way. When you commit to working with Sandra and her equine team, you will learn about the vast potential of partnering with horses, how such work is accessible to a wide range of markets and how you can define your unique contribution as you create your niche therein.

Space is limited to six participants so please register early.

A $350 non-refundable deposit is requested with your application.

Program Overview:

The EGD Facilitator Training Program is a multidisciplinary, experiential training opportunity. The term Equine Guided Development was chosen as the curriculum will encompass study in the fields of equine guided learning, counselling, and leadership, and will address their applications with individuals, schools and teams.

This 100 hour program is divided into three modules and is designed to meet the rising equine industry standards as outlined by the Equine Facilitated Mental Health Association and the EFMH branch of CanTRA. It will also cover the principles and philosophies of the Epona Approach, honour the work of other leaders in the field and share a variety of innovative Chiron's Way practices across a variety of markets.

The three modules will each have their own guiding principle. Module 1 will focus on the reflective aspects of partnering with horses while Module 2 will move into more active work and initiate the planning/creating process for Module 3. Module 3 will see participants express their learning in a 2-3 day workshop which they will design and implement according to their unique skill sets and post-program goals.

Each module will be woven through with a variety of creative experiences, teaching you how to integrate your own interests and talents into activities with horses.

REFLECTIVE      ACTIVE      EXPRESSIVE      CREATIVE

The EGD Facilitator Training Program is ideal for anyone in the wellness, educational or leadership fields and is also appropriate for people who want to expand their own perspectives through heartfelt practices with horses. It is offered over the course of five months and will include three, 5 day training modules, monthly conference calls, a manual and hand outs, guided practice sessions, an individual 1-1 session with Sandra during the program, a post-training tele-session and a certificate of completion.

Program requirements

The EGD Training will include field work, group process and additional home-study assignments, designed to heighten your learning experience and enable you to create your own 2-3 day workshop.

The EGD process is a powerful one and unique to each person or group. It cannot be stated strongly enough that in order to ethically facilitate individual, group or team development, applicants must have stability within their own personal process and have experience with how powerfully it can be catalyzed in the company of horses.
